

Soror Linda Simmons-Henry

Soror Linda Simmons-Henry, Senior Archivist at the North Carolina African American Heritage Foundation, Inc. She is the First Certified African American Archivist in the State. She also worked at Saint Augustine’s University library, as Dean of library and Archives in Raleigh North Carolina 1978 -2013. She has been recently appointed by the American Board of Certified Archivists to a four-year term to serve as the Consultant to 22 Historically Black Colleges and Universities libraries in the State of North Carolina and Nationally. Soror Simmons-Henry received her professional training in Colleges and University Libraries and Archives at North Carolina State University and North Carolina Central University. She is one of the most demanding and respected African American Senior Researcher and Archivist in the country.